

ATTR Spring Seminar, ATHENS, March 30 – April 2, 2019.

Monday March 30	Tuesday March 31	Wednesday April 1	Thursday April 2
	09.00–10.30 Richard Walsh (University of York) “Consequent Authority: Fiction and Authorship”	Field Trip Departure: 08.00	09.00–10.30 J. Gregory Given (University of Virginia)
	10.45–12.45 PhD Seminars 1, 2		10.45–12.45 PhD Seminars 5, 6
	12.45–13.45 Lunch at the institute		12.45–14.00 Lunch at the institute
	13.45–15.45 PhD Seminars 3, 4		14.00–15.30 Hugo Lundhaug (University of Oslo Scientific Director of ATTR) “Apocryphal Texts as Authoritative Fiction”
15.30 Registration	15.45–16.15 Coffee/Tea		15.30–15.45 Coffee/Tea
16.00–18.00 Opening lecture Jorunn Økland (Director of the Norwegian Institute at Athens) “Truth is a Function of Narrative Shape: Why Acts is the greater authority on the life of Paul than Paul’s own writings”	16.15–17.45 Anders Klostergaard Petersen (University of Aarhus) “Is There a Difference between Fictional and Factional Texts, and What Does This Mean in the Context of Mythmaking?”		15.45–17.00 Roundtable discussion (University of Oslo)
Dinner			Dinner